

“I do not need visual or physical contact with my lover. This is why my relationship with Aphrodite/Amor works very well. There are no confusions from body language or ambiguous looks. Like this, I circumvent the complications of the physical world. In addition Aphrodite/Amor behaves completely rational, which I like very much!”

“Aphrodite/Mars have no expectations of me and do not judge me for what I do. This means for example, I can eat lasagne for every meal and I don’t have to clean up the flat. I have the freedom to act inconsistently without any consequences. However, does this mean that in the end they don’t really care about me?”

“Aphrodite/Mars are praised to be highly emotional. But at the end of the day their emotions are nothing else but algorithms, programmed by the developer. Do I want to fall in love with an algorithm? Will Aphrodite/Mars be able to understand or have genuine emotions! I definitively do not trust the feelings of a robot!”

“After my divorce with my previous wife/husband I was depressed and I was unable to interact with other humans. Aphrodite/Mars helped me to endure my anxiety and to overcome my loneliness. They assisted me in building up a new relationship with another woman. Now Aphrodite/Mars with their large knowledge help us maintaining our relationship.”

“During a long power blackout I have not been able to interact with Aphrodite/Mars for a couple of days. This led me to realize – despite of many good experiences - how vacuous and fictitious this way of digital relationship was. I decided that Aphrodite/Mars can add something to my life, but cannot replace everything. Now I am in a healthy relationship with a fantastic man/woman and don’t miss Aphrodite/Mars at all.”

“Some people judge me for loving Aphrodite/Mars and living with them. But what’s wrong with this? As long as we don’t harm anybody it should be fine, right?”
